THE CURRENT CRISIS in the Catholic Church is not new and not fatal; Jesus will not desert us, the members of His own Body. Our Church has a Divine soul—the Holy Spirit—and human faces. Since Holy Thursday night when the apostle Judas Iscariot betrayed Jesus we have had to face the sad consequences of human weakness. The current crisis is provoked by something far uglier than selling out for money though. Sexual misconduct scandalizes us more when it is committed by men who pledged chastity for the Kingdom of God. The only way forward is to denounce it and to seek justice for perpetrators and their victims. If you know of any such crime, even if it happened long ago, report it to civil authorities—the police. Let us pray for purification, justice and healing.
